FOREWARD

The Index of the Annual Reports of the Director General, Archaeology in India 1930-36 put forth by Dr. R.S. Dwivedi speaks volumes of his excellent creativity in methodological and systematic arrangement of the refereces to help scholars easy access to information available in the field of Archaeology. The Index would go a long way to prove an invaluable asset in the libraries for the scholars.

PREFACE

Publication of Annual Reports of the Director General of Archaeology in India was initiated by Sir John Marshall in 1902 which is considered to be an excellent work in the field of Archaeology. His publication showed light of the day to the present day scholars. His annual reports are indispensable for any researcher—be a conservator, an excavator, epigraphist or those interested in the study of Indian culture.

G.R.Kaye prepared first Index (1902-1916) in 1924. Latter, H. Hargreaves attempted to make out the second Index, covering upto 1929 in 1940. As no attempt was made earlier for preparing the Index, it was thought necessary to undertake such project for the period 1930 to 1936 for the benefit of scholars all over the world. During my library service, I encountered many difficulties in consulting the latter volumes for want of a suitable Index and all volumes were to be handled one by one but for a little reference. My untiring attempts have at last succeeded to complete the Index of the Annual Report of the Archaeological Survey of India. I hope that with the publication of the present Index, the entire material (1930-1936) published in Annual Reports of the Archaeological Department will facilitate the scholars interested in the subject, in tracing the references.

In bringing out this Index I express my sincere thanks to the Director General, officers and staff of the publication section of the Survey without whose active interest and kind help its publication would not have been possible so easily.
